Subject English/Language Arts

Essential Question

What is gained and missed from making assumptions? How do assumptions influence our perceptions of individuals?

Summary

In this lesson, students will read and compare two short stories by Roald Dahl looking specifically at the female leads and reflecting on societal assumptions.

Snapshot

Engage

Students watch a video clip and contemplate who the villain is.

Explore 1

Students participate in a Honeycomb Harvest about villains and their characteristics.

Explain 1

Students read "The Landlady" and begin the "Says/Means/Reveals" chart.

Explore 2

Students re-visit the Honeycomb Harvest and use sticky notes to describe how their thinking may have changed.

Explain 2

Students read "Lamb to the Slaughter" and complete the "Says/Means/Reveals" attached chart.

Extend

Students write a "Dateline-esque" interview with questions and answers based on a character from either story.

Evaluate

Students write an exit ticket to respond to culminating prompt.

Standards

Oklahoma Academic Standards for English Language Arts (Grade 9)

9.3.R.1: Students will analyze works written on the same topic and compare the methods the authors use to achieve similar or different purposes and include support using textual evidence.

9.3.R.3: Students will analyze how authors use key literary elements to contribute to meaning and interpret how themes are connected across texts:

- setting
- plot
- characters (i.e., protagonist, antagonist)
- character development
- theme
- conflict (i.e., internal and external)
- archetypes

9.3.R.4: Students will evaluate literary devices to support interpretations of texts, including comparisons across texts:

- simile
- metaphor
- personification
- onomatopoeia
- hyperbole
- imagery
- tone
- symbolism
- irony

9.3.R.7: Students will make connections (e.g., thematic links, literary analysis) between and across multiple texts and provide textual evidence to support their inferences.

Engage

Teacher's Note

Prior to beginning the lesson, print and cut out enough sets of the attached Honeycomb Harvest cards so that each pair of students have their own complete set. When feasible, print on heavier paper, such as card stock, and laminate the cards to ensure they last beyond this one lesson.

Use the attached Lesson Slides to introduce the lesson to students by displaying slide 2. Share the lesson's essential questions and learning objectives on slides 3 and 4.

Display slide 5 and play the Dateline: Point Blank video for students.

Embedded video

<https://youtube.com/watch?v=VioMHyk9fts>

Ask students follow-up questions that encourage them to think about how the story and people involved are portrayed.

- Who do you think the killer is?
- How was the criminal portrayed?
- Is the 'bad guy' always who you think it is?
- What has to happen to make a person 'snap'?

15 minutes

Explore #1

Display slide 6. Introduce students to the Honeycomb Harvest strategy. Group students in pairs and distribute the Honeycomb Harvest cards to them. As they are working, monitor, and ask probing questions to help them determine why they chose these connections. Ask students to share out with the whole class. Encourage questions and discussion. Instruct students to keep their cards in place. They will return to this activity later in the lesson.

Teacher's Note: Extra Explanation

Slides 7-8 provide extra examples of how the Honeycomb Harvest could look with a possible “solution” on slide 8. If needed, show these slides to students to see possible connections.

25 minutes

Explain #1

Display slide 9. Share some background information about the author of the two short stories covered in the lesson.

Display slide 10. Pass out the attached story, "The Landlady," and the attached Chart-Says-Means-Reveals. You can also share the link to the story on CommonLit. Go over the expectations for each column in the chart.

- Says: Excerpts from the text, include the page or paragraph number.
- Means: What does the text factually say?
- Reveals- What does the text reveal about the characters or story?

While students read, have them fill out the Says/Means/Reveals Chart with details about characters in the story.

Once all students have completed reading the story, have them partner with someone sitting near them and discuss how they responded to each of the excerpts from the text.

15 minutes

Explore #2

Display slide 11. Instruct students to revisit their Honeycomb Harvest sort activity. In this round, ask them to re-evaluate how they sorted their cards since the last reading. If they choose to make any changes, they should record these and their reasoning on a sticky note. Walk around to monitor discussion and check for changes in thinking. Ask for volunteers to share out with the whole class how their thinking or connections have changed since reading “The Landlady.”

20 minutes

Explain #2

Display slide 12. Pass out the attached story, "Lamb to the Slaughter." You can also share the link to the story on CommonLit. This time, while students read, instruct them to select their own excerpts that they want to analyze. Have them complete the Says/Means/Reveals table they started previously with details about characters in the story.

Once everyone has completed the reading, have them partner with someone sitting near them to discuss which excerpts from the text they chose and how they responded to each of them.

120 minutes

Extend

Remind students of the Dateline clip they watched earlier and the interview-style portions that occur between the journalist and those associated with the victim or investigation.

Display slide 13. Have students work in pairs or small groups to compose an interview script. Instruct them to focus on the characteristics of the main characters in the short stories as they compose their questions and answers:

- How might you describe your neighbor, Mrs. Maloney?
- What would you say that the Landlady was like?

Teacher's Note:

Students have options between recording their interview and performing the interview live in class. If students perform live in class, skip to slide 17. Use slides 14-16 if students record the interview. The slides explain an application called Do Ink that students can use to record.

Once students have had time to write and possibly record their interview, display slide 17. Give them time to act out or show their created videos and share out their experiences.

30 minutes

Evaluate

Display slide 18. Pass out the attached Compare and Contrast Venn Diagram. Focusing on the characteristics of the two main characters, have students compare and contrast the Landlady with Mrs. Maloney.

Display slide 19. For their Exit Ticket, instruct students to complete a Quick Write by responding to the questions on the slide and using evidence from work done throughout the lesson to support their responses.
